

Bill Flocco uses a playful yet focused approach to learning the healing touch of reflexology. He uses a variety of learning tools, visual, verbal and tactile, which broaden the scope of learning. Our training days were full of endless nuggets of knowledge leaving you satisfied yet craving the upcoming day. Bill has a gift and he generously shares it. Bill wants you to succeed reminding you of all your strengths, of all you have learned, and all you will continue to learn as your practice and passion grow. Thank you, Bill.

Bill Flocco's 200 hour certification course for Integrated Foot, Hand and Ear Reflexology was well worth all my time and effort. I received so much information, and a wealth of sound educational material plus new thoughts and ideas. I have been offering foot reflexology for years and can now offer all three aspects.

As an experienced reflexologist, I am walking away with a new thumb technique and better body postures. These subtle, yet enormous changes leave me with more energy at the end of the day. When I experienced and saw how deeply I relaxed and my classmates de-stressed using Flocco's Integrative Foot Hand Ear Reflexology, I switched my way of doing business overnight. The response from my clients tell me it was the right thing to do. What a thrill to be part of this new wave of professional-to-be reflexologists in OR and SW Washington. Bill inspired us - raised the bar on education and taught us cutting edge integrative reflexology over the last four months for the benefit of all.

Techniques that tantalize, empower and soothe, this is what Bill offers his students. His boyish grin, peering out from behind his studious, professional manners, plays a large role in his method of delightful madness. This keeps the class in good spirits while tackling difficult material. I would highly recommend this course of Integrated Reflexology to beginners, and seasoned professionals alike. In Gratitude,

Bill Flocco is a masterful teacher. He is always organized. He is always kind and thoughtful, his style of teaching is encouragement. He layers the material methodically, building each day upon the previous day's lessons. He teaches without ego. He teaches as one who serves, sharing his wealth of knowledge as his life purpose. Bill teaches in a variety of ways so all may learn. He mixes up many approaches each day. He is present to see that all may be successful at learning. Bill continues to learn and be open to thoughts and styles of reflexology internationally and has synthesized the best of all bodies of work to present to his students. Bill sees each of us as individuals and accommodates our needs while holding the class cohesive. Bill views community as a sacred gift, and encourages professional relationships.

Things I like about the Bill Flocco's Integrated Reflexology Workshop:

1. Bill Flocco. He is kind, encouraging, and indefatigable in his efforts to help us succeed. As a teacher he uses multiple techniques to present the material. He strives to create understanding for all.
2. The workbook. It is a valuable resource, and I will continue to study and learn from it.
3. The people the workshop attracts. The entire group was congenial and supportive. The atmosphere was always nurturing.
4. Bill's technique. From foot to hand to ears; then all three; then integrated to provide sessions that are powerful and sublime.

- Variety of learning methods made the course interesting and varied, catering to all styles of learning.
- Never clock watching as the course, each day, moves at a good pace; hands on, anatomy and physiology, questions and discussion as well as frequent breaks for fresh air.
- Bill fosters an amazingly supportive learning environment. While we are working towards being independent practitioners, it felt very much like a team as we went through the course. This has created a group of people which will always be there for each other as our businesses grow.
- Expectations are high - yet all the support to succeed is there.
- New skills and techniques for even the most experienced practitioner.
- Inspiring and motivational.
- Includes tips and sound, experienced-based advice on the practicalities of starting a business.

- It was an honor and great pleasure to learn from Bill Flocco. His methods of teaching and enthusiasm as well as supported encouragement have touched my heart.
- This training over the past 5 months has been profound in my growth and inspiration as a reflexologist.
- Learning the Integrated method of foot, hand and ear reflexology is so exciting and I feel blessed to be able to share this with others.
- The anatomy sections of this course were well done, fun and comprehensive. I have a much better understanding of the body systems and now I can use this knowledge along with new reflexology skills, to help people on a much deeper level.
- I don't want this class to end!
- I want to take all Bill's classes!

The American Academy of Reflexology with instructor Bill Flocco, who presents 200 hours of in-depth knowledge in multiple formats addressing various learning styles; who shares his experiences and knowledge as a professional, healer, teacher and friend, has brought quality, integrity and heart to the training and profession of reflexology. I recommend his methods to anyone who may remotely be interested in the healing arts or anyone pro-active in the health of themselves or loved ones.

What I like about this course:

- Bill's humble yet genius teaching techniques

- Bill's humble attitude
- Bill's strength in not cutting you the wrong type of slack - instead he empowers you . . .
- The awesome way this class is versatile in being able to adjust to your learning curve. I am not a natural homework- memory-retaining-type person, and I am amazed! at just how much I was able to retain.
- How well thought-out the course was from hands-on to learning anatomy; full of information from day one to final day of testing.

Bill Flocco is an inspiring and excellent teacher. His ability to teach all aspects of the course with innovation and fun made the class appealing. I learned more than reflexology. The group was unified and became a family. This family will now be an addition to the family of Reflexologists around the world.

I recommend this course to anyone wanting to learn and experience the depth of reflexology. This first ever course in Oregon was a great success. Every student walked away with all they need to know to begin a practice of reflexology.

This course opened hearts and gave each participant the courage and possibility to move into the community with a skill worth sharing.

Bill Flocco is an excellent super man. He opened my eyes to deep reflexology. That for me is new, and my heart is full of thankfulness. He made sure even of the manual information. 1000-1000 thank you.

The Ear, Hand and Foot Reflexology Course was fantastic. It was nothing like I had thought it would be, but so much more. Bill Flocco has taken his 30 years of experience in reflexology, physiology & anatomy and created a course where people can understand his work in 100 hours. His course is fun and challenging. He layered his course piece by piece in such a brilliant and thoughtful way. The Flocco method is thorough and advanced. He consistently graduates people who are professionally trained, integrated and a "cut above". He is an innovator and one heck of a nice guy who knows his stuff. I am very grateful for the American Academy of Reflexology, the students, our teacher, Mr. Flocco, and the experience. I would highly recommend this course.
